

Water and Effluent Systems Specialist

CCMP is a well established Engineering and Dairy Service Company in the South Otago Region that operates throughout Otago and Eastern Southland in support of the Dairy industry.

We are seeking applications from suitable individuals to undertake the role as Water and Effluent Systems Specialist due to the impending retirement of a long standing employee. This role involves continuing the growth and development of CCMP's presence in this market, and the sales of these products and systems, predominantly to the Dairy Industry.

The position is based in Balclutha and is a permanent full time position.

The ideal applicant would have a background in Water and/or Effluent Systems, relating to farming, and have had experience in design and project management of new installations. You would be required to give technical support to our installation staff, as well as work closely with clients, to meet their requirements.

The ability to prioritize work and commit to and meet deadlines is essential, as is the ability to form good relationships with staff members and Clients.

This position offers a challenge that would suit a person with a Trades background who wants to take the next step up in their career. Training and support will be provided and current position holder will be providing training for the successful applicant for a period of time.

A full job description is available on request.

An attractive remuneration package will be negotiated with the successful applicant, based on their proven skills.

If you are energetic and like to be challenged, please email us your current CV and covering letter to: hamish@ccmp.co.nz or post to: Vacancies, PO Box 81, Balclutha 9240
